Subject: Happy Cows Project Update-- Well HK-11
Date: 12/17/2012 03:28 PM

Group,
Things slowed down after we talked and it is 3:30 and we are just getting done with this well. What took time is that the material here is very silty and it took much extra time to clean out the casing muck. So we probably will not start HK-10 until Tuesday.

Eric, I got your request for a table of what we have at this time. Will try to get it done by tomorrow.

On the good side of things, the weather turned out to be very pretty today since we have had sun all day. It is still cool, and very windy, but we were able to keep going and made it past this location with all the heavy traffic (including those double trailers full of hay which we need to keep going along the road to keep them there cows happy and away from us).

More when things develop further.

René
